Extended Writing (Big Write and Hot Write)

- Every piece of writing is to be marked.
- Highlighting – Light blue examples of good practice – with an explanation.
Green – Examples relating to the previous week target with explanation.
- CTG target must be written for the children to work on the following piece of work.
Example: CTG: To include adverbs like slowly, quietly, angrily. Revisit mark the previous lesson CTG in green.
- Spelling corrections in English to be completed in purple polisher (3 words KS1 and 5 words KS2) Example: Sp before before before
- From the spring term (Year 2, 5 and 6) spelling misconceptions to be indicated by a green dot in the margin of the line where the misconception is situated. The child should then check spelling of the words on the line and self-correct accordingly. Corrections to be completed in purple polisher.

Maths Marking – Maths Book

Session 1

- If the child finished the fluency questions, they should self-mark using their purple polisher. They should draw around the square next to the question if correct and place a dot next to the question if incorrect. Corrections should be made using a purple polisher.
- In the 15 minute marking session, the teacher will mark every question that has not been self-assessed.
- Correct questions should be marked using a green highlighter next to the question.
- If incorrect a green dot should be used
- The teacher may assess and indicate which activity the children are to move onto using the assessment code below.

Session 2

- As above with the addition of highlighting the assessment code in green if the child has achieved.
- If the child has achieved, without same day intervention then the objective should also be highlighted.
- If the child has not achieved a green dot should be placed next to the code and objective

Guided Reading Fluency Sessions– Jotter Books

- The teacher will not mark the book unless they are addressing a misconception whilst working with a child in their group
- The teacher may assess and indicate which activity the children are to move onto on their planning.

Guided Reading Application/Depth Session –English Fluency Book

If the question/CTG is correct the question will be highlighted in green, if incorrect a green dot will be placed next to the question

- CTG comments may be used in lessons to either close the gap to the intended outcome or to extend the learning through further application of skills and problem solving.
- If pupils are asked to apply a CTG then an open-ended yellow box CTG: should be drawn.
